

Anthony Cammarata Jr. is a Managing Director of Goldman Sachs and member of the Corporate Services and Real Estate global management team, responsible for overseeing the strategy, budget and execution of a range of real estate operations and services for the firm. He is a member of the Goldman Sachs Global Business Resiliency Council, sponsor of the Emerging Leaders Program and a member of the Americas Disability Interest Forum Steering Committee, where he is the sponsor of the Recruiting Pillar. Anthony also globally manages the division's Environmental, Social and Governance efforts in support of the firm's Environmental Policy Framework and local community engagement. He is involved with the firm's citizenship efforts in downtown New York and Jersey City and maintains relationships with community and government officials throughout lower Manhattan and Hudson County, New Jersey.

Anthony joined Goldman Sachs in the Technology Division in 1986 and moved to Services in 1989 where he was responsible for expanding the firm's real estate portfolio across the Americas. He became head of Corporate Real Estate in 2000, head of Corporate Services and Real Estate Americas in 2002 and global head of Facilities Management in 2008.

Anthony is president of the Colgate Center Property Owners Association, Inc. in Jersey City and a member of the Hudson County Chamber of Commerce Executive Board of Trustees and the Hudson County Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy Committee. He is also a vice president of the National Muscular Dystrophy Association and a board member for the Muscular Dystrophy Association's New York Muscle Team. Anthony serves on the advisory board of the Southern New York Chapter of the National MS Society. Anthony earned a Bachelor of Business Administration and a Master of Science degree from Pace University.